

In a very intense vision, where he receives a huge gash on one cheek, a young wizard learns how to break an age-old curse that has plagued a kingdom for more than eight hundred years. A key must be found to break the curse, a key not made of any known material. The key is a very special group of people who are not destined to work together. The young wizard must become the cement that binds this mismatched group in order to free a half-elven princess whoâ€™s become a prisoner of the curse. Will he succeed in finding all the people on his list, and will he succeed in bringing them all alive and to the appointed place in time to break the curse? All the elements are against him, because some among the group have no empathy toward the lovely princess and the torment sheâ€™s going through.
